Tips from the artist:

Color tinting is really easy.

1. Trace the design onto the fabric as usual
2. Make sure your work surface is clean and smooth and there isn't any lint/threads on the back of the fabric.
3. Color all areas that you'll be tinting somewhat heavily with white crayon.
4. Tint all areas as directed in the pattern (or use your own imagination!) I like to use a little circular motion.
5. Heat set with a hot iron by laying a white paper towel over the tinted area and pressing (you'll smell the wax). Remove the paper towel and look at it. If there's ANY color on it repeat the pressing process with a clean paper towel.

Crayon Tinted Fabric Washing Instructions

The crayon tinting embroidery method has existed since the 1930's or 40's and some things have survived, such as aprons and tea towels, with some fading. However, since this is an embroidered design and since we can't be absolutely sure about new stain fighting soap formulas, the best thing to do is treat it like the very delicate hand-made design that it is, by using a gentle soap and washing with cold water on the delicate cycle or by hand washing. For example, if your child accidentally were to get crayon on their shirt, you'd probably never get it out, but Murphy's law being what it is, if it's going to come out of something, it will come out of the quilt. So be careful!
